Church Software now on all your Devices

As church and ministry leaders demand greater flexibility and access to information about their communities we've heard them and responded by releasing our newest version of Fresh Vine. By leveraging the newest approaches in web development the newest release of Fresh Vine allows your staff and key leaders access everywhere across smart phones, tablets, laptops, and desktops.

"Our commitment is to the people committing themselves to the care, growth, and transformation of others. This new release is a culmination of months worth of work, and countless conversations with ministers. We're excited to be allowed our role in innovating cutting edge tools on their behalf," said their founder Paul Prins.

Over the next several months the Fresh Vine team will continue to add in requested functionality and work towards so other major innovations. For now they are remaining tight lipped about what those innovations entail, but are confident that they will tie together many requests they've heard from across the ministry spectrum.
